

13th NILS ERIK WICKBERG LECTURE
QUO VADIS ARCHITECTURA?
OTAKAARI 1 - MAIN BUILDING, LECTURE HALL C
06.10.2015 13:15 - 19:00

Mixing the Private and the Public in the City

The boundaries of Public and Private have constantly changed during history and they are still changing.. Modernism brought a separation of work and living. City life in squares and street was abandoned but today we feel a need to find again the liveliness of cities through our senses and social life. The lectures are looking at the boundaries of public and private in history of architecture, housing and in urban and regional planning. Is today's technology a limitation or enabler of new possibilities? Can the sharing economy extend in the use of spaces?

The Organizers are the chairs of History of Architecture, Housing and Urban and Regional planning.

13.15 -13.30 Welcome. Introduction to the theme of history, Professor Aino Niskanen

13.30- 14.30 Petitions, neighbors and civic planning in late-seventeenth and early-eighteenth century England. Dr. Emily Cockayne (University of East Anglia)

14.30- 15.00. Architect, urban historian Panu Savolainen (University of Turku ):
An invisible dichotomy? The meanings of public and private space in 18th-century Swedish towns

- 15.10 discussion

15.10– 15.20 Introduction to the theme of housing, Professor Hannu Huttunen

15.20-16.20 100 Mile City and Other Stories. Architect Peter Barber (University of Westminster)

16.20 – 16.40. Time for space. Beyond the predictable. Architect, Dr. Karin Krokfors (Aalto University)

-16.50 discussion

- 17. 20 interval for coffee

17.20– 17.30 Introduction to urban and regional planning, Professor Kimmo Lapintie

17.30 -18.30: Children's place in the city: about the changing boundaries between public and private space in children's everyday life from the 1950s till today. Professor Lia Karsten (University of Amsterdam)

Discussion

- 20 Wine and refreshments in the lobby